Re: Allied Mineral Products Current Operating Status

I am pleased to report that throughout the recent pandemic, all of Allied's manufacturing facilities have remained open and fully operational.

Allied responded to the coronavirus early on, issuing our first employee health-related guidance and requirements in late January. We have continuously revised and improved our employee health safeguards and policies as we have learned more from the CDC and other governmental agencies. As a result, we have maintained a fully staffed, healthy and committed workforce.

Responding quickly has also allowed us to maintain our stock of raw material and allowed us to continue operating our manufacturing facilities. We are well positioned to meet your on-going and unexpected refractory needs resulting from coronavirus business interruptions.

Allied will stay proactive in the face of this unprecedented situation. While realistic about the challenges ahead, we are excited by the opportunity to be the quality supplier you can count on during these difficult times.

Let us know how we can help, and as always, Allied will "Be There" for your refractory needs.

Sincerely,
